Dear Pine Lake Christian Church,

There's a really good chance that you love books. And that's probably one reason you were interested in partnering with LATM at some point in the past 33 years. You coupled your love of books with your desire to see the nations hear and (hopefully) respond to the gospel of Jesus Christ. Thank you for letting those two things come together and allowing God to use them for His glory.

Recently, I received a call from someone else who loves books, a college student from Oklahoma. She told me that she was involved in campus ministry to international students and needed seven copies of the book First Steps in Japanese to give to students returning home to Japan. Because of Project Access and its goal to get all of LATM's books in 100 hundred languages made available for use in the United States, we were able to get those books for her to give to these Japanese students.

Your financial partnership is what is making Project Access possible. Thank you. Lord willing, in 2026, Project Access will be completely up and running with over 1600 books in (so far) 100 languages readily available for anyone in the US to order and share with their friend whose first language is not English. What a fantastic thing to be able to share our love of books, our love of God, and our desire to make disciples by making books available in this way.

Let's keep bringing the books,

Karl Halverson

Letting the Text Win

The April Book Club selection is Letting the Text Win, by Dr. J.K. Jones and Dr. Mark Scott, translated into Kurdish. This book helps prepare new and inexperienced preachers to capture a methodology in sermon-making and a theology of preaching, one in which they are interpreting Scripture well into the lives of the congregation. This book will be used as a textbook for students at the Hope Bible Institute in Kurdish Iraq.

Your gifts as LATM partners have made a big difference in the lives of the Kurdish students at the Bible Institute. Each student is a new believer in the past several years, coming from a Muslim background. And God is causing the growth in the church in this area with Kurds, Syrians, Iraqis, and Iranians all coming to Christ! LATM believes strongly in the investment of Christian books for this Bible Institute as they are laying a foundation among people groups where Christ has not been known. Over the past four years, your partnership has produced seventeen Christian books for these students (with four more books currently in the translation and printing process). Thank you!
