Dear Ones for Whom Christ Jesus Died,

As we move beyond Thanksgiving, I find myself reflecting on the many blessings we have here in the United States. This time of year reminds us to express our gratitude for the freedoms we enjoy—freedoms that were hard-won by the sacrifices of countless brave Americans who laid down their lives for our liberty. I am deeply thankful not only for this freedom but also for you, my dear friends, who continuously uplift me through your prayers and steadfast support, both spiritually and financially. Your kindness and generosity resonate deeply within me, and I sincerely thank you from the bottom of my heart.

I am excited to share some wonderful news from our Crooked Creek Christian Church community in Irvine, KY. Our podcast has recently produced a marvelous new brother in the Lord, Mark Wade. His journey to faith is truly inspiring. Mark traveled over two hours to attend my revival service this past month, where he made the significant decision to be baptized for the remission of sins and to receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. Witnessing his commitment was a joyous occasion for all of us, and we are filled with gratitude and excitement for his new life in Christ. Mark's story is particularly remarkable as he studied his way out of the Roman Catholic system, seeking truth and ultimately entering into the Kingdom of the Living God. His journey serves as a powerful reminder of the transformative power of faith.

The revival at Crooked Creek was a resounding success. I had the privilege of preaching about the unsearchable riches of Jesus Christ, a message that resonated with many. We were blessed with numerous visitors from nearby congregations, as well as enthusiastic members of Crooked Creek. Each person present seemed genuinely interested in the Word of God, creating an atmosphere of spiritual growth and fellowship. One of the highlights of the week was meeting Evangelist Paul Raghu, who is doing incredible work in southern India. His passion for spreading the Gospel is contagious, and he has extended an invitation to seven or eight of us to join him for 10 to 12 days this coming March. I have eagerly accepted this opportunity and look forward to the experiences and blessings that await us on this journey.

In addition to these exciting developments, I want to share how grateful I am for the seven disciples I teach each week. Their growth in understanding and application of the Word has been a source of joy and encouragement for me. Each session reveals their thirst for knowledge and their desire to deepen their relationship with Christ. It is a privilege to walk alongside them in their spiritual journeys, and I am continually inspired by their dedication and commitment.

As we continue our walk in faith, I encourage you to reflect on the many blessings in your own life. Let us remain steadfast in our prayers for one another, supporting each other as we strive to fulfill the calling God has placed on our lives. Thank you once again for your unwavering support and love. You are a vital part of this ministry, and I cherish our connection in Christ.

By God's Matchless Grace I Am,
